

2011 Foreign Country Income Summary

The following funds (see chart on next page) have elected under section 853 of the Internal Revenue Code to pass through to their shareholders the opportunity to claim foreign taxes withheld as either a credit or a deduction. Therefore, you are deemed to have paid directly the foreign taxes included in box 6 on your Form 1099-DIV. A foreign tax credit will generally result in a direct reduction in your U.S. tax liability, subject to certain limitations.

The information contained within the chart will assist you in calculating the information necessary to claim either a credit or itemized deduction. While it may not be necessary in order to substantiate the credit, if you would like to calculate your foreign source income by country, multiply your ordinary dividends (Box 1a of Form 1099-DIV) by each factor shown in the 'Foreign Income Source' column of the 2011 Foreign Income Summary Chart on the following page. To calculate your foreign taxes paid by country, multiply your foreign taxes paid (Box 6 of Form 1099-DIV) by each factor shown in the 'Foreign Withholding From' column of the same chart on the following page.

The amount reported to you below as “non qualifying” did not meet the fund level holding period requirement and is therefore allowed as a deduction only.

In order to claim a foreign tax credit, you, as a shareholder, must also satisfy certain holding period requirements with respect to your mutual fund shares. If the holding period requirements are not met, the foreign taxes will qualify as itemized deductions only. Consider speaking to a tax professional to determine whether the foreign taxes passed through to you by the fund are either creditable or qualify as an itemized deduction, and whether to make the election to exempt you from the foreign tax credit limitations and the filing requirement of Form 1116.
